I want to show an existing excel sheet which contains a list of all customers and corresponding account number and the status of the transaction for each customer. For all customers there should be the same number of transactions. Example: CustomerA = 1, has 4 transactions A: This would be my personal approach, setting up your data: Here the PIVOT function is used to stack one row for each customer on a new sheet starting from Cell A2. Here the SUMPRODUCT function is used to determine the result for each customer. Here the VLOOKUP function is used to determine the result in the first sheet again by matching the customer 4th movie in the series is my favorite. This is mainly due to the fact that it contains a Harry Potter and Hermione's relationship to the readers. I loved this movie because it had a lot of new characters, such as Remus Lupin, the History of Magic professor, the new Defense Against the Dark Arts teacher, and the Lovegood twins, which was also really enjoyable. I loved all of the new characters, and the way that this movie started was great. I don't want to spoil it, but this movie was the first time that I really liked how a certain character started their interactions with Harry Potter. I love

the way that Snape
and Harry interacted, and I love the way that
